Olson Fab Wins Over Mother Nature For Cornwall Karter's.

It was Olson Fab Night for the Cornwall Karting Club as they resume racing after Two Weeks of Mother Nature taking the nights events away from the club. With cloudy sky's and damp weather for Tuesday Nights running teams were expecting a wet tack track. But with some wind and sun Tuesday afternoon it was the exact opposite the track was smooth and fairly dry, causing a whole different type of racing from what The Karting Club Has been used to. Hot laps gave each team a chance to make proper adjustments to the race machines to get the best performance and handling for the heats to come. For many drivers a dry track is something they have never raced on, but for others it was a welcome site as they race on different tracks that do run a drying track then Cornwall.

After Two Weeks of rain outs the teams were more then excited to get back into action in turn giving fans a great night of racing action for all. And with the dry track they would have to pay close attention to how each kart handle's on the drier surface of the 1/8 Mile Clay Banked Oval located between turns three and four of the big track at Cornwall Speedway.

During the heats the skill of the young drivers who have never ran on a dry track was soon to be a thing of the past as after a few laps it was easy to tell that these race teams could adapt to any track surface.

In feature action this week the 15 of Zach Reneaud grabbing the checkers .In Rookie the 94 of Gabriel (Bad Gab Cyr) took home checkers.

Jr Sportsman this week was a nail biter as the 22 of Cedric Gavereau taking the win but not without some great moves by the 22 to hold off the pack.

In Jr Sportsman was a three feature night with the 11 of Dylan Tinkler, the 12 of Sean Winters and the 15x of Dakota Reneaud all taking a feature win.

In the Jr Restricted a two feature event with the 1 of Justin Lalancette grabbing the first win and the 24 of Devon Caron taking the second .Caron can be seen running in a Patriot Super Sprint this Sunday night on the big track.

To round off the nights event was the stock class with the 24 of Joe Quenville holding off a hungry pack for the win.

Be sure to join us next week July 21 when it will be Mikes Contact Karate sponsoring the evenings event.. With $4.00 admission for 5 and up green flag at 7:15.
